

ABOUT US

The Morris K. Udall Foundation was established by the U.S. Congress in 1992 as an independent executive branch agency to honor Morris K. Udall's lasting impact on this Nation's environment, public lands, and natural resources, and his support of the rights and self-governance of Native Americans and Alaska Natives. In 2009, Congress enacted legislation to also honor Stewart L. Udall, Morris K. Udall's brother, for his more than 50 years of distinguished national leadership in environmental and Native American policy. The agency is known today as the Morris K. Udall and Stewart L. Udall Foundation and is headquartered in Tucson, Arizona.

THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA PARTNER PROGRAMS

Since 1987, the Environmental Policy Program (EPP) at the University of Arizona's Udall Center for Studies in Public Policy (Udall Center) has conducted policy-relevant research and outreach on the environment and related themes. Since 2001, the Native Nations Institute for Leadership, Management, and Policy (NNI), a program of the Udall Center, has served as a self-determination, governance, and development resource for Native Nations.

Through EPP and NNI, the Udall Center 1) examines the interconnections of society, water, climate, energy, and ecosystems; 2) conducts outreach through science-policy dialogues, stakeholder engagements, and expert forums to assist public officials and other decision-makers; 3) provides rigorous, accessible research on Native Nation governance and development; and 4) delivers comprehensive leadership training on Native Nation building.
